

MONMOUTH COLLEGE

WOMEN'S BASKETBALL RECORD BOOK

TEAM HISTORY

Although the game was played as a recreational and intramural activity as early as the 1890's, women's basketball did not make its intercollegiate debut at Monmouth until the 1974-75 academic year. Midwest Athletic Conference for Women (MACW) competition started in 1978-79 and the league began divisional play in 1980-81. Monmouth was a member of the South Division until divisional alignment was discontinued after the 1997-98 season. The current Midwest Conference (MWC) was formed from the merger of the MCAC (men) and MACW (women) conferences in 1994 and both leagues have used a postseason tournament format to determine the conference champion since the 1979-80 season. Home games were played in Waid Gymnasium from 1974 to 1983 and the college's present court in Glennie Gymnasium has been used since the 1983 season.
